

CORRADO CASORZO

Director Product Management Water Devices

Corrado Casorzo is an experienced Director of Product Management with a demonstrated history of working in the Water Utility Sector. With his engineering background and extensive experience in project management and marketing, he oversees Itron's global lineup for water metering devices.

Bringing over 20 years of expertise in the industry, Corrado leads a global team of multicultural professionals towards solving customer's challenges in worldwide markets. Striving for continuous metering performance improvements, he drives the development of smart water solutions to help water utilities in the management of resources.

